Deep Blue

A dip into the refreshing waters of the sea and immediately we feel the refreshing strength throughout our body. In 1987 the French biologist Rene Kent scientifically proved that human white blood cells become reproduced in sea water and that sea water is exactly the same components with the plasma of blood. However, water in general has a unique ecosystem, with invaluable role to life, for health and beauty. It is of no coincidence that increasingly in the last years, science and cosmetology are turning their attention to the sea organizations in search of rich ingredients for care and anti-aging products.
